You have what it takes to be a

Sustainability Champion

It's Easy Being Green!

UCLA Staff Assembly hosts regular Learn-at-Lunch (L@L) events for all UCLA employees.

Are you wondering about this "thing called sustainability"? Would you like to learn about UCLA's goals and how you can demonstrate leadership in helping your department to reach its potential? Wondering how we'll achieve targets such as Zero Waste 2020, Carbon Neutrality by 2025 and reducing the campus water consumption 36% by 2025?

This Learn-at-Lunch is for you! UCLA's Office of Sustainability and the City of LA Green Business Program have partnered to help us achieve these goals! Bonny Bentzin, UCLA's Deputy Chief Sustainability Officer will talk about the campus goals and the UCLA Sustainability Champions program along with Sandrine Cassidy, City of LA Green Business Program Manager, sharing LA's Green Business Certification Program. Tips on how to make your department zero waste will also be covered.

Join us to learn more about this exciting work, participate in informative dialogue and win prizes that can help you and your office join the sustainability movement. Feel free to bring your own lunch. We look forward to seeing you!

Date: Monday, March 12, 2018

Time: 12:00pm - 1:00pm

Location: Facilities Management 2nd Floor Large Conference Room - 2102A

Directions to Facilities Management 2102A

Facilities Management is located on Charles E Young Dr South, between Ronald Reagan Hospital and Parking Structure 8. You can enter the building off of Charles E Young Dr S, via the short stairs/ramp across from the Emergency Room Entrance. When you enter the building, there will be large glass windows on your right. Take the stairs at the end of the corridor, or find the elevator through the two metal doors, to the second floor. The 2nd floor large conference room- 2102A is to the right off the elevator corridor.
